CLE Faculty Biographies

Richard Uchida is a real estate/business lawyer with broad experience in a number of areas. His experience includes a wide variety of real estate transactions as well as representing clients before local planning and zoning boards in connection with the development of commercial and residential properties. As a business lawyer, he advises clients on formations, acquisitions and sales of businesses and commercial leasing. Richard often serves as outside counsel to a number of New Hampshire law firms, and regularly represents attorneys and judges in professional conduct matters.

Leah Plunkett directs UNH School of Law's Academic Success Program, where she teaches students how to cultivate those learning skills necessary for success in law school, on the bar exam, and in legal practice. Leah also researches and writes about digital citizenship and student data privacy in her role as a Fellow with the Youth and Media team at the Berkman Klein Center for Internet & Society at Harvard University. Leah is a former Climenko Fellow & Lecturer on Law at Harvard Law School and was the founder of the Youth Law Project at New Hampshire Legal Assistance. She clerked for the Hon. Catherine C. Blake in the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland.

Courtney Q. Brooks directs UNH School of Law's Legal Residency Program, which allows students to earn academic credit while developing legal and professional skills under the close supervision of a practicing attorney or judge. Courtney works with students to develop individualized learning objectives with a focus on cultivating the legal skills, professional competencies, and characteristics necessary to successfully launch a legal career. She also teaches a companion Legal Residency course focused on professionalism. Prior to joining UNH School of Law in 2010, Courtney worked as a business litigation and products liability attorney at Nixon Peabody LLP, Pierce Atwood LLP, and Reed Smith LLP.
